

Beyond regression: time series and changepoints

Rebecca Killick

Lancaster University

In preparation for considering the rewilding data, this talk will build on the foundation of regression models to describe the extensions to time dependent data and to modelling changes over time. We will approach this from a modelling perspective, seeking to explain aspects of observed data which are important either to answer pertinent questions, or to remove nuisances in the way of answering pertinent questions.